A private Bob & Jean Trip to Italy's Alta Valsesia

"On arrival, it's so picture-postcard perfect I feel as if I've walked into a living museum filled with startlingly fresh mountain air."

- The Globe & Mail

Italian Alps Ultimate Hiking

Our uniquely curated small group trip explores one of Italy's true hidden gems – the Alta Valsesia. A UNESCO Geopark nestled at the foot of the Monte Rosa, the second highest peak in the Alps, the Valsesia is a hiker's paradise. It's lush hanging valleys, alpine meadows and panoramic views remain remarkably pristine, and there is always a mountain refuge with flowing wine and a delicious home-cooked meal to welcome you at the top of the trail.

Explore the Rich Walser Culture

The Valsesia is home to the Walser, a Germanic shepherding people, whose iconic wood and stone-hewn Baitas pepper the valley's alpine meadows and mountain slopes. We are based in the Walser village of Alagna (1200 metres), a UNESCO World Heritage Site, and hike to beautifully preserved alpine hamlets and visit the medieval town of Varallo or the French-influenced Gressoney in neighbouring Valle d'Aosta.

A Unique Insider's Experience

This trip is personal for karibu. Our family has lived in the Valsesia for 500 years, and we share our favourite hikes and visit some of the family homes, including a centuries old Baita in the beautiful hanging valley of Otro, a shepherd's hut where freshly made ricotta, butter and cheese are made, and a mountain refuge with a spectacular view of the Monte Rosa.

Our Mission

For the active adventurers and nature lovers who seek raw and real experiences in some of the world's most spectacular wild places, and want to help keep them that way through responsible and inclusive travel. Our carefully curated destinations celebrate what makes life truly awesome.

"The most magnificently unspoiled setting imaginable" - The Globe & Mail
